The Circulation of The Bulletin.

The Bulletin has the largest circulation of any paper in Eastern Connecticut, and from three to four times larger than that of any in Norwich. It is delivered to over 2,000 of the 4,053 houses in Norwich, and read by ninety-three per cent of the people. In Winham it is delivered to over 300 houses in Putnam and Danielson to over 1,100, and in all of these places it is considered the local daily.

Eastern Connecticut has forty-nine towns, one hundred and sixty-five post office districts and forty-one rural free delivery routes. The Bulletin is sold in every town and on all of the R. F. D. routes in Eastern Connecticut.

THE BULLETIN'S ILLUSTRATED BOOK.

It is not surprising that a great deal of interest is felt in the pictures which are to be a feature of the 55th anniversary Jubilee book—what they are to be and what they are to represent. Portraits of the officers and chairmen of committees and the guests of the city will number a score or two and then there will be photographs of the decorated streets, the parade, the performances and objects of special interest. It is expected, will make about 50 pages. Where there are large assemblages of people the pictures will be made large enough to make the identification of citizens possible. There are quite a number of these photographs which will be given a full page.

It is the purpose of The Bulletin to make this book so attractive that it will be in prompt demand when it appears in December for delivery.

The Bulletin has submitted to it for examination about 200 photographs already, and expects to have others submitted.

The letterpress and the illustrations will represent the best part of the anniversary celebration, and the book will be prized for its accuracy and value by Norwich people everywhere. Order books on the coupon to be found in The Bulletin's advertising columns.

WHEN THE AGITATION STARTED.

The agitation for postal savings banks was started by Postmaster General Creswell of Grant's cabinet in 1871. It has been recognized as a good thing, but has been put upon the waiting list and has stayed there ever since.

The Baltimore American calls attention to the fact that "when Banker James A. Gary of Baltimore became postmaster-general under McKinley he started out to make a postal savings system an established fact during his administration. At that time it was Lyman J. Gage, secretary of the treasury, who said, 'Wait!' Mr. Gage distinctly recognized the reasonableness of the demand for postal savings banks, but he held that the gold standard should be firmly established by statute. That has been done. The republican party and President Taft have promised the people postal-bank legislation. But they are asked again to wait, this time until Senator Aldrich can devise a plan for remodeling the national banking system."

This waiting game with reference to postal-bank legislation has been worked successfully for nearly forty years. It is time that the movement started by Postmaster-General Creswell should bear fruit. A bill for the establishment in the United States of the postal savings system should be passed by congress at its next session."

WE CAN ALL HAVE ONE.

There is something coming to us from across the water beside that splendid $2,500 prize cup captured by Curtiss. The aeroplane hat, a Parisian design, is expected to make its advent in New York any day now when great excitement among the ladies is to be expected. It is as shapeless and big as the largest in vogue of late. An exchange says: "The world has marveled at female hats patterned after every conceivable shape from a coquette and pencil-bucket to a sawtooth and a sulkey-pouch, and now that the aeroplane hat is making its appearance it is only necessary to permit the imagination to run its natural course to see what the future years are to bring forth."

"As the aeroplane hat will doubtless be furnished to customers all inflated, primed, gasolined and ready for use, it might be a wise precaution to have eye-rope attached to the ribbons and the other end securely fastened to the earth so as to avoid accidents upon those occasions when women are disposed to fly too high."

Here in Norwich we may witness the triumph of this aeroplane hat long before we see the flying machines sailing overhead.

All the joy riders can hope to do is to see the flying machines sailing overhead.

BEAR THIS IN MIND.
The legal rate of speed for motor carriages of every sort over Connecticut bridges is six miles an hour. Carriages are seen crossing these bridges every day at a greater rate of speed than this and we do not hear of many prosecutions, but some men who consider the law a dead letter are going to be prosecuted for violating it some day when they least expect to be. It is the part of wisdom to respect law and not harm to be known to result from it, but taking chances along these lines results in fines for the few anyway, and the man who is often convicted that he is immune from prosecution is the one who some fine day is made an example of. "Be sure you're right, then go ahead," is a safe motto for all auto drivers to bear in mind.

50,000,000 SOUVENIR STAMPS.
The new stamp designed to memorialize the Hudson-Putnam celebration will be eagerly sought by the stamp collectors of the country. This new two-cent stamp is to be placed on sale just prior to the opening of the celebration. The design is said to be artistic and appropriate. The center shows the Pallades of the Hudson river in the background, with the Half Moon sailing up the river and the Vermont steaming in the opposite direction. In the foreground is an Indian in a canoe, and in the distance a canoe containing four Indians. These stamps number about two to a family the country through and a large part of them are likely to find their way into stamp albums without seeing any service; and there is no doubt that the collector of stamps will get into the hands of the speculators. As a postal department habit this is to be commended, for it places on record an evidence of the event which is likely to be cherished for generations.

THE TORPEDO TUBE VS. PORT HOLES.

There have been lives enough sacrificed since the invention of submarine boats, to have made the way of escape understood. The recent experiment of shooting Lieut. Whiting through the torpedo tube prompts the designers of the boat to show the most expeditious method of escape. By this plan one man must sacrifice his life, while by the other every man may escape from the sunken and disabled boat. An officer of the manufacturing company describes the further action to be taken:

As soon as the pressure is equalized one of the men standing around the port takes his life preserver in his hand, looks his comrades in the eyes and takes hold of the edge of the port slides under the water and up inside the port. A touch upon the trap door makes it fly open and the sailor plunges upward through the trap while the door closes behind him. The air pressure is equal to the water pressure, so no air escapes and no water enters.

As soon as the first man has gone the second man follows exactly in his steps. He ducks under water and comes up by the port. The door flies open and he plunges up to the surface. Man after man shoots up to the surface until no one remains in the submarine. If all else fails this method is safe.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Happy thought for today: A keen observer remarks that tears are not worth their salt.

Spain is about to start her new navy with thirty-five million dollars worth of English made fighting ships.

In aviation the Wrights were the pioneers, and that is a distinction which cannot be taken from them.

Curtiss knows that those Frenchmen have got to follow him to America next year in order to win that cup back.

When Harriman's health becomes uncertain the suspicion of his ability to make good gives his stocks a hard knock.

Chicago claims that there is not another city in this land that requires two general postoffices to meet its requirements.

The woman who said that she stole two shirt waists because she was hungry had only the every day feminine taste for them.

It is rather pleasing to New London county for the fact that the world is not booked to come to an end until after the county fair.

An Englishman has risen at Winthrop to tell the people there that the United States leads the world in progress in education.

Since we call the automobiles "autos" for short, will we not be calling these flying machines planes before a year rolls round.

The man who invented a collar button that will not roll under the dresser may not get rich, but he has won the thanks of his fellow men.

When it comes to political high-flyers Mr. Allen of Middletown appears to be able to keep up until he lands in the midst of a salary.

Will these men who are defending the harmlessness of the benzene of soda please let us know whether it makes the bologna cow healthy enough for frankfurters.

Prof. Langley could invent a machine that would measure the light of a candle nine miles away, but he spent a hundred thousand upon an aeroplane that wouldn't fly.

The Georgia legislature has made it illegal for colored men to wear the insignia of white men's lodges. Where properly chartered the insignia represents the colored fraternity.

Attention is called to the fact that the harbor of San Francisco can be mined in forty-eight hours. Since the 12-pound guns throw a projectile twenty-five miles, what good would that do.

The leading physicians with whom Harriman is in consultation say that the use of the knife has never been considered. Mr. Harriman's stomach demands that he shall respect it, and he will have to or his stomach will finish him.

In 1908 purchases of Japanese porcelain, lacquer and bronzes by England, France, Germany and the United States decreased by $1,000,000. Exports to China fell off $12,500,000 generally, owing to the reduced value of silver and the Tatsu Maru boycott. All exports decreased except mats, floor matting and refined sugar.

Woman in Life and in the Kitchen

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Miss Charlotte Mansfield, an English novelist, is returning to her native country, having penetrated as far into the wilds of Africa as she could safely, the sleeping sickness preventing her from going as far as she had planned. She studied the folklore of the people and it is expected will write a book about it.

The amethyst is the proper precious stone for the bride, and it can be procured set in almost any way and in every imaginable piece of jewelry, even hatpins, belt buckles and necklaces being ablaze with the pretty stones. Furthermore, stockings, shoes, parasols and gowns have taken on the amethyst shade.

Miss Lucy Burns, who was arrested for taking part in the suffrage meeting in London June 25, is a Vassar graduate and a student of modern languages at the University of Bonn. Miss Alice Paul, who was among those taken in charge by the London police, is also an American woman, and holds the degree of master of arts.

Prof. Frances Squire Potter of the Minnesota state university was recently chosen to be corresponding secretary of the National Woman's Suffrage association to fill the place vacated by Miss Gordon of New Orleans. Prof. Potter is a native of Elmira, N. Y., and at present occupies the chair of English literature at the University of Minnesota. She will move to New York in time to open the new suffrage headquarters in the fall.

NEEDLEWORK SUGGESTIONS.

Paris Transfer Patterns Nos. 1003-1007.

Pickled Peaches.
Pour boiling water over the quantity of peaches one wishes to pickle. With a coarse towel rub off the skins; put in a stone crock. Make a syrup of one quart of best cider vinegar to three parts of sugar; boil sugar and vinegar, skim and pour over the peaches three days in succession. Then on the fourth day drain off the syrup; put a layer of fruit in fruit jars three inches deep; sprinkle over each layer bits of whole cinnamon and cloves, then another layer of fruit and so on until jar is filled. Put the jars or at either end, add a few drops of oil of cloves. Seal tightly.

Wiener Roast.
One and one-half pounds of round steak, one pound of veal, one-half pound of fresh pork, one onion, slice of bread one and a half inches thick, soak in water, two eggs, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Put meat and onion through meat chopper, add bread (squeeze water from it), and eggs. Season with salt, pepper, nutmeg, and mix thoroughly. Form in loaf. Put a few pieces of salt pork on top and roast for three hours at 350 degrees. Just before it is done, add a little water and three tablespoons of canned tomato for gravy; thicken a little with flour after meat has been removed.

Servicable Dresser Covers.
Dresser covers of pique or Indian head cotton, buttoned around the edge and boasting of the owner's monogram in raised embroidery in the center, or at either end, are exceedingly dainty and serviceable.

Don't Overcrowd.
Don't overcrowd. Don't be too ornate for comfort. Don't put too many ornaments on your home to resemble a May pole.

One tone alone is monotonous, and the two that harmonize are perfectly safe, but many tones and units must be blended with the utmost care.

Don't mix woods, mahogany, golden oak and ebony in one room, and a combination that has only utility to recommend it.

See that your pictures are well hung and suitably framed. Too many buy the pictures for the frame. Simple, dark wood frames for etchings or engravings, dull gilt for water colors or oil paintings and narrow lines of wood harmonizing with the darkest one in the photograph are a good choice.

Banana Bread Pudding.
Mix one cup and a third of grated bread crumbs, one cup of sifted banana pulp, one cup of milk, one egg, half a lemon and two tablespoons of melted butter. Beat one egg and two yolks; add one-fourth a teaspoonful of salt, one-half a teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half a cup of milk, and when well mixed pour over the bread and banana mixture. Bake in a buttered pudding dish, in a slow oven until firm. Sprinkle top with currant or other jelly and cover with a meringue made of the whites of two eggs and four level teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar. To make a meringue, beat the whites dry, then beat in half the sugar, gradually, and fold in the other half. Return the pudding to the oven for five or eight minutes to brown the meringue.

To Keep Scalp Healthy.
To prevent scalp from getting into an unhealthy condition from being overheated, all cushions must be removed at night and the hair thoroughly washed and combed. Nothing will cause the hair to fall so fast as the scalp warmer than it normally is. But there is less danger from such a condition than there is from the scalp being too cool. The hair should be kept at night and restored to normal temperature. Leave the hair unbraided and loose, but should this not be comfortable it may be confined in a plait. Under no circumstances is to be twisted and pinned on the head again.

Slumber Bags.
Slumber bags of heavy wool in plain colors are replacing the steamer rug for deck use by many travelers. The bag lays up to the neck and is provided with a hood. It is especially good for the convalescent.

The Touch of Black.
It is now the fashion to wear a black belt, a small black sash cravat and a black hat with a light-colored band. It is also considered fashionable to wear these accessories with a white duck skirt and batiste blouse.

Russian Blouse Coming?
It is rumored that long coats may have their popularity challenged in the near future of the Russian blouse, for signs are not lacking that this old favorite is again to be brought forward. Examples of it have already been seen in brocade Anglaise lace and embroidered crepe de chine.

Hungarian Goulash.
Three pounds of veal, cut into inch cubes, three large onions sliced, three large potatoes sliced, one-half cup of water, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, one-half teaspoonful of black pepper, one cup of butter or drippings, one cup of cream. Put butter or drippings in a kettle and when hot add the onions and fry, then add the veal and cook for ten minutes. Add the potatoes and the water and season, cover closely and cook slowly for one hour. Place the potatoes on top of the meat and cover again and cook until they are done but not broken. Lastly, add the cream and cook for five minutes before serving.

FALL FASHIONS.
The advance fall fashions are extreme. The pannier has come back and many of the new dresses will make the short women look like "Mother Bunch." Fullness of all kinds has returned. First it appeared at the bottom of the skirts in the shape of plait. Now it is seen quite boldly around the hips. The overskirt seems to have arrived and not only the plain article, but the elaborately draped affair.

Of course, the waist line comes down to its normal position and it is laced in rather tightly. All kinds of contrasting belts with rosettes will be worn. In fact, this is to be a stuffy season.

Hats are to be large, judging from the new models brought over. They will be trimmed with enormous all-greases and huge flowers. The hat shape turned up in the back is back again and this of course means a different style of hairdressing. Sleeves are to be absolutely plain. Across the top in most cases, which at least gives a graceful shoulder line.

PERSONS TALKED ABOUT

Mrs. Sallie J. McCall of Cincinnati left 50 shares of Cincinnati Street railway stock to the National Woman's Suffrage association.

Miss Julia Hutchinson, niece of Major I. A. Donnell of Los Angeles, will travel 11,000 miles to Yokohama, Japan, to marry Ralph Harding. On their return four the young couple will travel an additional 2,000 miles through the Orient.

Harvard university has received from the widow of James A. Russell of Springfield $15,000 to establish three scholarships to be known as the James A. Russell scholarships. Mr. Russell was graduated from Harvard with the degree of A. B. in 1859.

Leftwich Whitmer Swain, said to be a relative of John Whitmer, died at Damascus, Wayne county, Pa., where he had gone to regain his health. Mr. Swain's home was in Brooklyn. He had been poor for some time, and two years following an attack of typhoid fever.

Friedrich Thell, a peasant of Rauda, in Saxony, whose leisure hours have been devoted to the study of Greek, Latin, Hebrew, Sanskrit, Arabic and Gaelic, is 75 years old. He is beginning to study the English language. Thell is in correspondence with some of the leading philologists of the day.

Dr. Lyman Abbott's theory that the Russian government regards Tolstoy's teachings as innocuous and unworthy of the attention of a cruel police-prosecutor receives another blow from the exile of Tolstoy's private secretary for two years on account of his crime of circulating one of his master's pamphlets.

G. Bernard Shaw, says a story-teller in The Berlin Post, never goes to the theater except to see one of his own plays. He was asked recently why he denied himself the pleasure, and answered: "You see, I snore so dreadfully that no one near me can sleep with any degree of peace. That is why I do not go to the theater."

John Jay Chapman, whose letters to President Eliot and to Major Higginson, about the "Harvard Chastity" which a publishing house has induced President Eliot to select and edit, is a Harvard alumnus who ten years ago won a place of considerable prominence in the world of literary criticism and reform, and of late he has been quiescent.
